On Thursday morning, Welch swam a two-and-a-half mile stretch of Newfound Lake, a popular destination for swimmers in the region. Welch made a mistake about 36 years ago that would change his life forever, while also being an inspiration to amputees of all ages. He said that the vehicle’s safety features had a major impact on his injuries during the accident.

Sanbornton seeks new town administrator

By BOB MARTIN

SANBORNTON — Town officials are in the process of finding a new town administrator for the town, which has expired at the end of July. The town board of selectmen will determine its next steps later this month.

Currently, the town of Sanbornton has an interim town administrator, Charlie Smith, who is employed by MRI and has been with the town for about a year since Bob Velkoski departed when the current town administrator job came open.

The town board of selectmen created a vetting committee to find three permanent town administrators and drill down to three candidates. The selectmen then hope to have the positions filled as soon as possible.

MRI is not involved in any of the hiring processes for the new town administrator. Dexter said it is unclear whether Smith will apply for the town administrator position.

“Some candidates will be eliminated from the hiring process so we will work toward three,” said Dexter.

“We are kind of taking the process out of the hands of the town office,” said Dexter.

There have been 11 applicants for the job, and this was slated down to six in the interview process. Better than having two people who have not been able to select three names out of this group of six, the board is trying to interview and find three candidates.

Dexter said the right candidate for the town administrator job will have municipal background, human relations experience, financial experience and budget experiences.

“When you look at a new position, the standards exist what it takes to work in small town New Hampshire.

“Sometimes that is harder to find than finding a good administrator when it comes to the technical parts of the job,” said Dexter.

Dexter said MRI supplies a temporary administrator to them who has a qualified degree, but may not have single experience in municipal government.

He said the town decided to go this route after the former Town Administrator Bob Velkoski left as a temporary administrator for the town.

The contract with MRI was supposed to end on July 1, but it has been extended to the end of July, as the town had not yet brought on a candidate.

Three candidates were interviewed last week, and selected candidates will begin interviewing this week, which will take place during the week of July 11.

The board of selectmen will determine their interviewing process in the following week. Dexter or Hankard will be involved in the last round of interviewing.

“Soon,” said Dexter.

“I really couldn’t do this without all of them,” said Dexter.

In New Hampshire, Welch has swam the full length.

Welch said the water was warm and inviting at times, but the idea was to keep on pushing.

“Good Dr. Jack”, said Welch.

Welch is a resident of Shirley, Mass., and a graduate of Belmont High School. He was a United States Marine, and he credits his national toughness to what he went through.

He said he swam and ran, and said he was honed to perfection.
