

Metrocast helps string lights in Belmont village

Helping to brighten and “Deck the Village” in Belmont for its recent festival, the Heritage Commission reached out to MetroCast regional manager Moira Campbell, and her elves reached up, to install a Christmas wreath on the 1833 Belmont Mill. Jeff Winchell is shown and was helped by Mark Lesko along with Bill Deroy. The welcoming elves in hard hats also took time to string lights on the Town Christmas tree next to the library. Rounding out the year at New Hampshire Humane Society, our last creature to showcase is ROCKY.

He's a strikingly handsome beast, taylor-made for photography with his muscular body, charm and charisma and big dog smile. All this personality should carry him far in life.

Owned by people who found moving to a new place did not allow for Rocky, he ended up at our shelter for his second chance back in September. Don't judge the book by the cover – yes our Rocky is a Pit Bull Terrier but he is a):handsome b):eager to please c):smart and energetic. Think of him as the Ferrari you always wanted to own, sleek, fast, handles well - but you need superior driving skills Just one year old, Rocky is outgoing, friendly, always a good boy, apparently he
