BELMONT—What is being billed as "Belmont Night Out" will take place at Tioga Pavilion, next to the Belmont Mill, from 5 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 2.

The purpose of "Belmont Night Out" is to bring together Belmont Police and fire fighters with members of the community. It will offer residents an opportunity to meet with local emergency responders and share ideas about community safety efforts.

The event is being organized by Police Officer Evan Boulanger and Sgt. Adam Hawkins, working in collaboration with town government departments, civic organizations, and local businesses.

The event will include an extrication demonstration by the Belmont Fire Department, a K-9 demonstration with the police K-9 unit, child seat safety checks, a healthy living demonstration, and a tour of emergency vehicles.

A SWAT Team Tactical Command Center will be set up at the pavilion. Belmont residents can take photos with police officers and firefighters, and a group photo is scheduled for 5 p.m.

Snacks are being provided by Belmont Rotary, with soft drinks by Coca-Cola, and ice cream by the Granite State Dairy Promotion.

Games and face painting are being provided by the Belmont Parks and Recreation Department. DJ Steve Ainsworth of Equinox Entertainment will spin the music.
